

About Chorlton Players...

We are a non-profit making theatre group established in 1963 so we've been going a few years now. We are a group of about forty members, and we put on five productions per season. Our two mainstays are our pantomime every New Year, and a comedy review in early summer. We meet at The Spread Eagle every Monday and Wednesday evening for rehearsals and are always keen to see new members. Even if you don't fancy acting, we are always in need of all the other talents it takes to put productions on: backstage, costumes, front of house, set-building, audio-visuals, make-up, advertising etc. So, if you are interested in taking any part in our shows, please get in touch.

Producer

The Chorlton Players are pleased to welcome to tonight's performance, two respected voices of the critical community:

Higgs

One of the most celebrated theatrical peers of this generation and the author of countless classic reviews including "A great evening out" and "I wouldn't blow my dog's nose on it", Higgs is one of the most respected critics in the entire north of England. A man of piercing intellect, his career will no doubt go from strength to strength in the years to come.

Birdboot

A veteran critic with an excellent eye for detail, Birdboot recently attained renown for his brilliant review at the theatre Royal. His consummate professionalism and courtesy make him one of the most respected critics on the circuit today, despite overcoming many false accusations of misconduct with young actresses. He is an outstanding pillar of the local theatrical scene.
